Acknowledgments

Shelter Partnership, Inc. would like to thank the short-term housing program operators in Los Angeles County who took the time to complete the survey and answer questions from Shelter Partnership staff.

We would also like to thank Linda Preuss for her hard work in designing the database. Thanks must also be given to Yvette Menconeri for her data entry work as well as to interns Donna DeFazio, Melissa DeSantis, Karina Garcia, and Alex Guthman for their help in contacting the participating agencies. We would also like to give great thanks to intern Carolyn Cosentino for her crucial work in following up with agencies and inputting and analyzing data.

This study would not have been possible without the financial resources provided by the City of Los Angeles and the Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority.

This directory was prepared by Emily Zalkovsky, Project Manager with the oversight of Marc Tousignant, Senior Project Manager, and Ruth Schwartz, Executive Director.

I. Introduction

The 2006 Short-Term Housing Directory of Los Angeles County (Directory) contains a basic overview of the emergency and transitional housing options available to the homeless population of Los Angeles County. Los Angeles County includes the City of Los Angeles and 87 other cities as well as unincorporated areas. The County covers 4,084 square miles and, according to most recent estimates, has a population of 10,223,055.<sup>1</sup>

The term “short-term housing” refers to emergency and transitional housing programs. An emergency program, often referred to as a homeless shelter, usually allows clients to stay from one day to six months. Emergency programs often provide basic services such as shelter, food, and clothing. In contrast, transitional programs tend to offer more intensive services that focus on preparing clients to live on their own in permanent housing. The length of stay for a transitional program is typically up to two years.

The Directory is organized alphabetically by agency and contains basic information about 139 short-term housing provider agencies, including 17 winter shelter programs, some with multiple sites. The 139 agencies operate a total of 318 programs, including 17 winter shelter programs, in Los Angeles County. The winter programs are listed at the end of the Directory and are alphabetized by agency. Winter programs are listed separately because winter shelter providers and program sites may change from year to year. All information for the winter shelter programs is from the 2005-2006 program year. Although the Directory only includes basic information, resources permitting, Shelter Partnership will release more detailed reports on all programs in the future.

This publication is meant to be used only as a resource and planning guide to determine housing resources available to the homeless population in Los Angeles County. The Directory is not meant to be used as a referral source for clients since it does not contain admissions criteria and intake requirements. Those seeking a referral to a short-term housing program or more information about the programs in the Directory should call the Los Angeles County Information and Referral Service (InfoLine) at 211.

II. Methodology

All information was collected from agencies using a survey instrument. In January 2006, Shelter Partnership sent a pilot survey to four agencies to be filled out for one or all of their short-term housing programs. The survey questions solicited the information that is contained in the Directory as well as more detailed information to be analyzed and released in later reports.

Once the four pilot agencies returned their surveys, their program information was reviewed and the survey was revised to be more clear and user-friendly. The revised survey was then sent to a total of 164 short-term housing provider agencies in two rounds in February and March 2006.

The 168 agencies were identified using a variety of sources, including Shelter Partnership's 2000 Short-Term Housing Directory of Los Angeles County and lists of local recipients of federal Emergency Food and Shelter Program funds, Shelter Partnership Resource Bank participating agencies, Los Angeles Homeless Services Authority (LAHSA)-funded agencies, and new program announcements collected by Shelter Partnership staff. Each agency was asked to fill out a separate survey for each short-term housing program that it operates, including winter shelter programs, domestic violence programs, and substance abuse programs that primarily serve homeless clients.

Shelter Partnership continued receiving survey responses through September 2006. As survey responses were received, the survey data were reviewed by Shelter Partnership staff and examined for any omissions and obvious errors. Staff then followed up with survey respondents over the phone to collect any missing information and clarify unclear answers.

Of the 168 agencies that received the survey:

- 143 returned surveys detailing their short-term housing programs;
- 14 did not operate any short-term housing;
- 2 were closing;
- 4 did not return a survey; and
- 5 submitted basic program information for the Directory over the phone, but did not return a survey.

Once all of the survey information for each agency and program was entered into the database, an email containing the program information that was to be published in the Directory was sent to each agency for verification. If an agency responded with a correction to its information, the correction was entered in the database. If an agency did not respond, its information was left in the database as it was originally entered.

While Shelter Partnership made great efforts to ensure that the agency and program data were accurate, program information was not verified with anyone other than the agency representative and no site visits were conducted to verify this information. However, LAHSA did review the Directory for any omissions of LAHSA-funded agencies. Programs and agencies are always changing due to fluctuations in funding and changes in program philosophy. The Directory information is current as of September 2006, but may change in the near future.

As mentioned above, 143 agencies returned the survey, yet only 139 agencies are included in the Directory. The Directory only includes 134 of the 143 agencies that returned the survey and five agencies that submitted basic program information over the phone. Nine of the 143 agencies that returned the survey were considered to be inappropriate for inclusion in the Directory.

Shelter Partnership used specific criteria to determine which agencies were inappropriate for the Directory. Agencies were not included in the Directory for one or more of the following reasons:

1. The agency submitted incomplete and/or incorrect information, was not publicly funded, and after numerous attempts, would not cooperate in submitting correct and complete information;
2. The agency charged an extremely high rent/fee for their housing services relative to the clients' income (e.g. $800 a month);
3. The agency's program(s) was not a short-term housing program for the homeless, but more closely resembled a different type of housing such as a boarding house, a foster home or home for disturbed children, or a substance abuse facility that did not primarily serve homeless clients.

III. Definitions

The following definitions are listed in the order that they appear in the alphabetical listing of agencies and programs.

Homeless - All short-term housing programs in this publication serve homeless clients. The McKinney-Vento definition of homelessness used by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is:

1. An individual who lacks a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence, and
2. An individual who has a primary nighttime residence that is:
  - a. A supervised publicly or privately operated shelter designed to provide temporary living accommodations (including welfare hotels, congregate shelters, and transitional housing for the mentally ill), or
  - b. An institution that provides a temporary residence for individuals intended to be institutionalized, or
  - c. A public or private place not designated for, or ordinarily used as, a regular sleeping accommodation for human beings.

Short-term Housing – a temporary residence for homeless clients.

Emergency Housing – a type of housing for homeless clients that allows clients to stay from one night to six months. Emergency housing often offers basic services such as meals and clothing.

Transitional Housing – a type of housing for homeless clients that allows clients to stay for a longer period of time, often up to two years. Transitional housing usually offers services designed to help clients live on their own in permanent housing such as case management, money management, life skills, mental health counseling, child care, etc.

Agency – an organization that operates one or more short-term housing programs. All agencies in this Directory, except for the City of Covina and the County of Los Angeles Department of Children and Family Services, are non-profit agencies.

Program – a short-term housing program for homeless clients operated by an agency.

Program Address – the address at which a short-term housing program is located. While many program addresses in the Directory are actual physical addresses, some programs that serve special populations, such as domestic violence victims and homeless youth, listed an administrative office address or post office box to ensure the safety of their clients. Additionally, other programs simply prefer to use an administrative address rather than a program site address.

Target Population – the specific subpopulation within the larger homeless population that a program is designed to serve. Although programs may serve more than one target population, only the most prominent target population is listed in the Directory. The target populations listed are general. Some survey respondents listed a target population that was not an original choice on the survey. These “other” target populations are not included in the Directory. Rather, the “other” target populations were replaced with the most appropriate population from the survey’s original list. For example, a survey respondent may have listed “other - single women with children” as the target population. In the Directory, this program’s target population is listed as “families (general)” since single women with children is a type of family. None of the target population definitions were provided on the survey, so it is possible that survey respondents define the target populations slightly differently than those listed here.

The target populations listed in the Directory are defined as follows<sup>2</sup>:

Adults (general) – individuals over the age of 18 living alone or as a couple with no children.

Chronically Homeless – individuals or families that have been homeless repeatedly and/or for long periods of time.<sup>3</sup>

Domestic Violence Victims – individuals or families who have experienced interpersonal violence and abuse at the hands of an intimate partner or family member. Domestic violence is often the direct cause of homelessness for this population.

Emancipated Foster Youth – young adults, usually 18 or older, who were formerly under the supervision of the County of Los Angeles Department of Children and Family Services or the Los Angeles County Probation Department.

Families (general) – a household consisting of two or more people, including children.

<sup>2</sup> The target populations “agricultural workers”, “developmentally disabled”, “transgender”, “pregnant/parenting teens”, “physically disabled”, and “young adults (25-30)” were included as choices in the survey instrument, but no programs chose these populations as their target population. Therefore, these populations are not included in the target population definitions.

<sup>3</sup> Since definitions were not included in the survey instrument, it is unclear whether or not program staff used the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) definition when considering their target population to be “chronically homeless”. Therefore, the definition of chronically homeless listed in the Directory differs from the HUD definition.

HUD defines a chronically homeless person as:

An unaccompanied individual with a disabling condition who has been:

1. Continually homeless for one year or more, or
2. Has experienced four or more episodes of homelessness within the past three years.

To be considered chronically homeless, a person must have been sleeping in a place not meant for human habitation (e.g. the streets) and/or in an emergency shelter. Also, their disabling condition must be a diagnosable substance use disorder, mental illness, developmental disability, or chronic physical illness or disability.

Mentally Ill – those experiencing any number of illnesses that are psychological in nature and characterized by alterations in mood, behavior, and thinking. Mental illness often inhibits activities of daily living and causes emotional distress.

Multi-diagnosed – those living with more than one disabling condition, most often mental illness and substance abuse.

Persons with Chronic Health Conditions – individuals living with a physical medical condition that can be treated, but not cured, such as heart disease or diabetes.

Persons Living with HIV/AIDS – individuals living with Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV), a retrovirus that affects the immune system by attacking infection-fighting T cells, or individuals living with Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS), the disease caused by HIV.

Post-incarcerated – individuals recently released from a jail or prison facility.

Pregnant Women – females 18 and over who are pregnant and may or may not have children.

Runaway Youth – children who have left home. The survey instrument defined runaway youth as being between the ages of 12 and 17. However, some programs serve runaway youth who do not fall within this specific age range.

Seniors – people age 60 and over.

Substance Abusers – individuals dependent on alcohol or drugs.

Unaccompanied Youth – individuals not accompanied by a parent. On the survey instrument, unaccompanied youth were defined as being between the ages of 18 and 24, but it is likely that some short-term housing providers consider youth younger than 18 to be unaccompanied youth.<sup>4</sup>

Veterans – individuals who have served on active duty status in the United States Armed Forces.

<sup>4</sup> It should be noted that the definition of unaccompanied youth conflicts with the definition of adults since both definitions include unaccompanied individuals who are over 18. Unaccompanied youth is a somewhat ambiguous category that can include emancipated foster youth and runaway youth. For the purposes of this directory, unaccompanied youth usually refers to young adults who were most recently in the care of the foster care or juvenile justice system, or who have left home and are now homeless. A program may identify their target population as unaccompanied youth if they serve youth with several different backgrounds (e.g. some emancipated foster youth, some runaway youth, and some youth who are transitioning out of the juvenile justice system or another system of care).

Bed Number – the number of beds, including cots and cribs, that are available to homeless clients in a program. For programs where clients stay in apartments that can accommodate a range of beds depending on family size, the maximum bed capacity of the program is listed as the bed number.

Maximum Length of Stay – the maximum amount of time a client can stay in a program. For program listings where the length of stay field is left blank, either there is not a mandatory maximum length of stay or the program did not submit the information. Although a program may not have a determined maximum length of stay, it does not mean that the program is a permanent housing program.

Family Types Served – household types that are eligible to stay in the program. Family types listed in the Directory include single men, single women, single men with children, single women with children, adult couples with children, adult couples with no children, pregnant women, and unaccompanied youth. This information may also be used to further clarify and define the target population. For example, if a program's target population is listed as "families (general)" but the only family type served is "single women with children", then the program only accepts families that are composed of single women with children. The family types, however, do not specify how many children can live in the family unit or how many months a woman can be pregnant to be eligible for the program.

IV. Overview of the Short-Term Housing System of Los Angeles County

The short-term housing system of Los Angeles County consists of 139 agencies and 318 programs that provide a total of 17,055 beds. These numbers do not include other forms of emergency housing available for homeless persons, such as hotel and motel vouchers. All programs are operated by non-profits, except two, operated by the City of Covina and the County of Los Angeles Department of Children and Family Services.

System Changes

In 2000, the year the last Directory was printed, there were 153 agencies operating a total of 331 short-term housing programs and providing 13,632 beds. Of the 13,632 beds, 8,602 were in the City of Los Angeles and 5,030 were located in other jurisdictions within Los Angeles County. In this publication, there are 139 agencies, 318 programs, and 17,055 beds. This year, 10,062 beds are located in the City of Los Angeles and 6,725 beds are located on other jurisdictions in the County. The locations of 268 beds are unknown. While there are 14 fewer agencies and 13 fewer programs listed in this Directory, there has been an increase of 3,423 beds. In addition, 14 agencies indicated that they have new short-term housing programs in development.

The fewer number of agencies and programs can be explained by several factors. One, some agencies that were included in the previous Directory were not included in this one because they would not cooperate with giving correct program information, they charge clients a high fee relative to their income for staying in the program, or they no longer primarily serve homeless clients. Two, approximately 25 agencies that appeared in the last Directory are no longer in operation or no longer operate short-term housing. Three, some programs are now operated by different agencies. Finally, some agencies such as the YMCA and the YWCA have many affiliates in different areas of the County. In the previous Directory, each affiliate was counted as its own agency. In this Directory, only the YMCA and YWCA were counted as agencies while each affiliate is accounted for as a separate program.

Despite an 9.2% decrease in the number of agencies and a 3.9% decrease in the number of programs offering short-term housing, Los Angeles County has seen a 25.1% increase in bed capacity over the past six years.<sup>5</sup> The increase in number of beds available for homeless clients can most likely be contributed to new agencies and programs as well as existing programs expanding their bed numbers. Also, there are 1,944 winter shelter beds that are included in this Directory, but were not counted in the last Directory. For more details on the system changes, please refer to Table 1 below.

<sup>5</sup> The increase in beds includes 1,944 winter shelter beds that were not including in the last Directory. If the winter shelter beds are subtracted from the total number of new beds, the increase in beds during the past six years is 10.8%.

Geographic Distribution of Beds and Program Sites

As mentioned previously, Los Angeles County includes the City of Los Angeles, unincorporated areas of the County, and 87 additional cities. The following graphs and tables portray the geographic breakdown of both beds and short-term housing program sites by Service Planning Area (SPA), Los Angeles County Supervisorial District, and Los Angeles City Council District. The charts and tables also show the breakdown of beds and program sites within the City and the County. (Refer to Appendices A, B, and C for detailed maps of the SPAs, Supervisorial Districts, and Los Angeles City Council Districts).

Geographic data was verified by Shelter Partnership staff based on the program site addresses submitted by the agencies in the survey. If an agency did not submit a program address, but only indicated which geographic regions the program was located in, the geographic information could not be verified by Shelter Partnership.

In the charts and tables that detail the geographic breakdown of beds and program sites by SPA and Supervisorial District, there are 268 beds and one program site listed as “unknown”.<sup>7</sup> The beds and program site are unknown because two agencies did not submit program site addresses or geographic information and Shelter Partnership staff was unable to get this information from any another source.<sup>8</sup> The “unknown” beds and program site are not included in the Los Angeles City Council District charts and tables because it is unknown whether or not the beds are in the City of Los Angeles.

It is important to note that the charts and tables show the number of program sites, as opposed to programs, in certain areas. An agency may operate one or more scattered site programs. A scattered site program is a program that has several different locations. The charts and tables showing the number of program sites account for all of the different locations of the program within the specified geographic area.

<sup>6</sup> All 2006 numbers include 17 winter shelter programs with a total of 1,944 beds that were not included in the 2000 Directory. Also, there are 268 beds in 2006 with unknown geographic locations. These beds are not included in the City or the County bed numbers in Table 1.

<sup>8</sup> Additional agencies listed in the Directory also failed to submit addresses or geographic information. However, Shelter Partnership staff used other resources and information from the 2000 Directory and other sources to determine the locations of all unknown beds and programs except for the 268 beds and one program site listed as “unknown” in this report.

All charts and tables include information about the 17 winter shelter programs included in the Directory. Although the winter programs do not operate throughout the year, it is important to include them in the geographic distribution of beds and programs because they are an integral part of the system during the winter months.

Percentages in all tables may not add up to exactly 100% because numbers were rounded.
